November 18, 2015
11:30 a.m. – 1:00 p.m.
Seward Memorial Library
233 S. 5th St
Seward, NE 68434

RSVP: By November 13 to Jonathan Jank at Director@SewardRegional.com

Cost: $10 cash or check at the door

Achieving Successful Intergenerational Communication in the Workplace

with Dr. L.J. McElravy, Assistant Professor Youth Civic Leadership for Agricultural Leadership, Education and Communication at University of Nebraska–Lincoln

Are generational differences in the workplace real? During this session we will explore what aspects of generational differences are real, and what aspect are merely perceived. We will also discuss strategies to navigate the real and perceived generational differences that exist in organizations.

Sponsored by: University of Nebraska–Lincoln MBA Program
Hosted by: Connecting Young Nebraskans and the Seward County Economic Development and the Seward Area Chamber of Commerce

The Rural Futures Institute believes that young leaders are a vital part of communities and that young leaders should be embraced to harness their ambitions to energize communities across the nation.

For questions, contact Kayla Schnuelle at kschnuelle@nebraska.edu or call 402-472-2935.

The University of Nebraska is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity institution.